INTEREST IS KEEN IN CHURCH PLANS

Summer Sunday School Work Will Be Outlined at Mass Meeting Thursday,

The greatest enthusiam for the summer Sunday school attendance campaign is being shown by the heads of the various Sunday schools, teachers and church workers. Dr. E. E. George, publicity director for the drive, says that the mass meeting of Sunday school workers to be held at the Court Averue Presbyterian church Thursday night, promises to be one of the most important meetings in the interest of lible study work ever held in the city. The exclusive committee is now arranging the program for the occasion and a speaker of acknowledged authority on Sunday school, organization work will make an address.

Every minister, Sunday school superintendent, teacher and friend of the Sunday school, is urged to attend the organization receiting Thursday night, as this will be the first opportunity to get in touch, with the completed plans for the campaign.

The drive will start Sunday, June 6, and continue throughout July and The greatest enthusiam for the sum

Thoughts For The Quiet Hour

REV. G. W. KEMPER, D.D.

Sure, this world is full of trouble-I ain't said it ain't.

Sakes, I've' had enough, an' double Reason for complaint. Nerves exposed and pain intense, Head a-bustin' all the day; Watching lest I give offense,

Because I feel that way!
"But what's the use to grumble?" My dentist meekly said. The pain will make you tumble Until the nerve is dead!

Have you ever had a good, old-fashioned at tack of toothache? Have you ever experienced the "killing of a nerve"? If so, you will be that much better able to appreciate what we are going to relate.

Say what you please, it is sometimes a great relief to have a "dead tooth." It is true the process of making it such is not the most pleasant thing the world, but the final result fully repays. After the dentist had made you see all kinds of stars, with the able assistance of his villainous, snarp-pointed little chisels, he puts a small piece of cotton in the cavity and says, in the most matter-of-fact way, "I think that will do the work in a short time." And—it does, with a vengeance! Wait just about an hour, and then—thump, thump, thump! The poison on the innocent-looking little piece of cotton is settling down to business. Your head is now in a perfect whirl.

What shall be done? Someone suggests an application of camphor, then paregoric, then creosote—but all to no avail! Whew, don't it hurt? You walked the floor in agony. You said some things and got your wife to bring things—all sorts of things! You almost wished you could die, but just about the time you felt you had dis-posed of all your earthly belongings in a way to prevent, a lawsuit after your departure, suddenly the fire reached the powder magazine and the whole fort blew up with a bang that almost knocked the top of your head off, and—it was all over! The poison had done its work! The tooth was dead!

Again we find ourselves in the dentist's chair. For his weapon this time he selected one of the biggest chisels in his entire collec-tion, and then began his work of exploration. He rammed his buzzer around in that tooth and hammered and cut and did all sorts of things, but—no pain! "Look here, doctor, why on earth didn't you kill that thing long ago and thus have saved me the pain I've suffered for days and nights?" you asked. "Because," answered the dentist, with the meekness of Moses, "a dead tooth is never as good as a live one, and, at best, lasts only a short time."

And now for a lesson: My friend, what about that conscience of yours? Have you never tried to kill it at any one point? Oh, how terribly hard was the ordeal! Not simply one night, but many, perhaps, of intense uneasiness. If you used the right kind of poison, though, it died at last, and you perhaps felt you then had ease! Ease, did you say? Why, don't you know the pain you suffered meant life, while the ease meant only death and decay?

This matter of conscience is a very serious thing and needs careful treatment. The devil resorts to many tricks to give ease (?) of conscience. But beware! A real live conscience is a very valuable possession and should be carefully guarded against the assaults of sin and Satan. If you will keep your conscience in, a good state of health, it will then be void of offense.
